

Sexually Transmitted Infections

Topic: Let's Talk STI Testing

Partner 1: Hey, I've been a little nervous to bring this up, but I think we should go get tested for STIs.

Partner 2: Really? But we've been hooking up for weeks. Obviously, we're both in the clear.

Partner 1: Well, I just read online that you can have an STI and not even know it. And since we skipped the condom last time...

Partner 2: How can you have an STI and not know you have one?

Partner 1: Many people don't have any symptoms at all. But they can still pass it to other people they have sex with.

Partner 2: So, you're worried one of us has an STI?

Partner 1: Well, STIs are really common, kind of like the cold and flu. You just get them through sex. To be honest, we won't know until we get tested.

Partner 2: If it would make you more comfortable, I'll definitely do it.

Partner 1: Awesome. Let's make an appointment and go together. And after we get our results, let's talk about how we can keep things safer moving forward.
